Sir Joshua Reynolds, P.R.A., the great portrait and subject painter, was born at Plympton Earls, near Plymouth, on the 16th July, 1723. After various continental visits, he finally settled in London in 1752, and quickly became the most popular portrait painter of the day. He died on 23rd February, 1792. His picture "The Holy Family," an excellent example of his work, is in the National Gallery.
